▶ THE CENTER

Serving the community since 1986, The Delaplaine Visual Arts Education Center is housed in the 90 year-old Mountain City Mill on the banks of Carroll Creek in historic downtown Frederick. Classes are offered in an ever-growing list of media and subjects for all ages and levels of experience. Our award-winning facility features classroom/studio spaces for drawing, painting, crafts, photography, printmaking, wood, and ceramics as well as a reference library.

About Frederick, Maryland

While you are here, explore the City of Frederick, Maryland's second largest city. The downtown historic district has over 100 specialty shops, 40 eateries, and museums for everyone in the family to enjoy. Our history boasts of many turning points in this nation's history. Lush mountains and parks surround the City of Frederick. The City of Frederick is a host to several outlets of entertainment; for instance, the Weinberg Center for the Performing Arts as well as The Delaplaine Visual Arts Education Center. Nearby there are many hotels and quaint bed and breakfasts for an enjoyable stay.
